

KBCU-FM is a small College station which is the only media outlet in the community of 2500 we serve. Our budget is very small, and we operate based on the efforts of students and faculty to provide a educational experience in addition to serving our community. We struggle to stay on top of current regulatory requirements, and the addition of a taping regulation would probably be the end of our station due to the technical requirements and maintenance. I urge you to consider the effect of the proposed regulatory changes on small broadcasters serving rural communities. Thanks for your time.
